Why Table Tennis is my Favorite Sport

Different people have their own reasons why they like certain sports. As a sports enthusiast, I also have specific reasons why a certain sport is more favorite than others I also like. Indeed, I like soccer and table tennis but table tennis is my favorite sport. In table tennis, two players on opposite sides of a table divided by a net into two halves hit a lightweight ball forth and back using a small racket. Excepting the initial serve, a player needs to allow the lightweight ball hit toward him or her to bounce at least once on this particular player's side, and then hit it back such that it bounces on the opposite side of the table at least once. Although I have had immense enthusiasm for a wide range of sports, my favorite sport is table tennis because it is an individual sport so there is lacking teammates whose faults may result in a defeat; injuries are not common; and is unsusceptible to adverse weather conditions because it is mostly played indoors.

Firstly, table tennis is my favorite sport because it is an individual sport. Unlike team sports like soccer where failure or success depends on how well teammates can play, table tennis is an individual sport that does not require teammates. As such, defeat or victory in table tennis depends on the faults or success of an individual player. Furthermore, I prefer table tennis to any other team sport because the victory is attributed to a single player who achieves success. In team sports, victory is awarded to the entire team including teammates who contributed little effort during a game.

Secondly, table tennis is my favorite sport because injuries are minimal and not common. Unlike other sports like soccer, wrestling, and rugby among others where players interact directly with their opponents, players in table tennis do not interact directly because they are separated by a table. Other sports such as soccer and wrestling involve aggressive defensive playing mechanisms that usually lead to injuries, which may hinder a player from leading a normal life for some time to receive medical services. Conversely, table tennis is safer than most sports because the aggression of a player hardly causes injury on the opponent. Moreover, the playing equipment including a lightweight ball and rackets are less hazardous because they barely hurt players. For that reason, I prefer table tennis to any other sport because it is safe and hardly causes injuries that may interfere with my health and education life.

Thirdly, table tennis is my favorite sport because it is mostly played indoors so it is unsusceptible to adverse weather conditions. Harsh weather conditions hardly affect a table tennis match. Players can proceed with a table tennis match in a hall even in the presence of harsh weather conditions such as wind and rain. However, harsh weather conditions may hinder some outdoor sports including soccer. Table tennis is usually played indoors so players are also protected from health hazards exacerbated by harsh weather conditions.

In conclusion, there are myriad types of sports with different features but table tennis is my favorite sport. Table tennis is an individual sport so there are no teammates to influence the outcomes of a match. Also, table tennis is safe because playing equipment are less hazardous and players do not interact directly, which reduces chances of injuries. Lastly, table tennis is unsusceptible to harsh weather conditions because it is usually played indoors.

Dear Jane,

RE: A COMPLAINT ABOUT EXCESSIVE NOISE FROM YOUR LIQUOR SHOP

Over the past five years, we have maintained a good relationship even though we operate different businesses. Since you set up your liquor business next to my college, you have proved to be caring and considerate to us by keeping the sounds produced by your sound systems low.

By so doing, nobody realized that my college is next to the biggest liquor shop in town. Students and instructors have never complained over the high sound from your liquor shop until you removed soundproofs from the building in which you operate your business.

As you may be aware, a college is a learning institution that needs a quiet and serene environment. However, the excessive noise from your liquor shop is causing distractions during learning. Students are complaining that they are unable to concentrate in classes due to excessive noise. On the other hand, instructors are complaining that they must raise their voices to be heard by students during lectures. Last week, I received complaints from five parents about the same so parents are also concerned about this matter.

Due to several detrimental effects caused by the excessive noise, I suppose that it is an ideal idea that you take an immediate action to restore soundproofs because students in my college will be approaching final exams in the next three weeks. These students need a quiet environment to revise what they have learned. Additionally, government officials from the education sector will be coming to perform their annual inspection in my college in the next two months. As you are aware, these government officials may cancel my business license if they find this college is noisy. Finally, we will be enrolling new students in the next three weeks so I would not like new parents and students to realize that my college is situated next to a liquor shop. Indeed, my college would incur a great loss if you fail to fix this problem by the end of next week, February 08, 2020.

Your commitment to restoring soundproofs to reduce the excessive noise from your liquor shop would be highly appreciated.

Yours sincerely,

John Doe
